

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY CONFERS DEGREES ON 3 PHILADELPHIANS

Dr. Lawrence Francis Flick, Dr. Ernest La Place and Walter George Smith Among 12 Laymen Awarded LL.D.'s.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The Catholic University today conferred the degree of Doctor of Laws upon 12 laymen, among them being Dr. Lawrence Francis Flick, Dr. Ernest La Place and Walter George Smith, of Philadelphia.

Other to receive the degree of Doctor of Laws were Nicholas Charles Burke and Charles Joseph Bonarrie, Baltimore; Garrett Thomas Maurice Mulry, New York; John Benjamin Murphy, Chicago; and Hannis Taylor, Washington.

The Doctorate in Letters was received by Charles George Herberman, James Joseph Walsh and Ambassador Penfield, all of New York.

WALTER G. SMITH'S ADDRESS: Walter George Smith, of Philadelphia, made the address in behalf of the recipients of honorary degrees. He said in part:

"To all who have received the gift of faith, it must be a source of rejoicing that the Catholic University has come into being and after 25 years of trial has established herself on foundations so broad and deep that a mighty superstructure may be erected upon them."

Following luncheon the academic procession proceeded to the new National Theatre, where invocation by Cardinal Gibbons opened the exercises. The letter from the Pope, read at this time, followed.

"Our Beloved Sons, James Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop of Baltimore; John Cardinal Farley, Archbishop of New York; William Cardinal O'Connell, Archbishop of Boston; and other venerable Brethren, the Archbishops and Bishops of the United States of America."

INSURANCE MEN HEAR REPORTS ON BUSINESS

Underwriters Listen to Discussion of Many Problems.

The second session of the semiannual convention of the Western Union of Fire Underwriters began today at 12:30 o'clock here with the submitting of committee reports.

The morning session was taken up with the consideration of reports on various kinds of insurance and precautions to prevent accidents and fire.

The convention has been called for purely business reasons, and no social activities will be indulged in. The delegates are from the Middle West and are managers of large insurance companies in that section of the country.

The officers of the organization are as follows: Peter B. McCreary, president; John Marshall, Jr., vice president; and Edward B. Hatch, secretary, all of Chicago.

RICHMOND DEFIES "CURBSTONE VESTRY"

Struggle Between Episcopal Rector and Church Takes a New Turn.

The struggle between the Rev. George Chalmers Richmond, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, 34 street, below Brown, and the faction which is attempting to oust him from the rectorship, has taken a new turn with additional complications to the already involved muddle.

Although six of eight members of the "curbstone vestry" chosen a few days ago voted last night to request the cessation of the struggle, Richmond has refused to remove from the rectorship, it seems probable that the struggle will continue to rule over the parish for some time.

The organization which Mr. Richmond calls the "curbstone vestry" and which he says is without any legal authority—met at the home of one of the members, LeRoy A. McDerholt, 315 North 7th street, last night and voted on asking the removal of the rector, after two of the members, whom Mr. Richmond had expelled as members of the parish, had received notice from Bishop Rhinelander of the rector's reinstatement.

Shortly after the Bishop had sent such notice he discovered a letter from Mr. Richmond which caused him to rescind his restoration instruction to the rector, Charles A. Brown, and William T. Hamilton, the men Mr. Richmond had expelled, had no authority to vote, even were the "curbstone vestry" a legal one.

In the opinion of Mr. Rhinelander, the members of the "curbstone vestry" are not the followers of the rector. At the time they attended the meeting and took the action, however, Brown and Hamilton believed they had won a victory over Mr. Richmond, and thought they were within legal rights because they were unaware that Bishop Rhinelander had rescinded his notice replacing their names on the church record of members.

The bishop notified Mr. Richmond last night that he had made an error in reinstating the members at that time because a 15-page letter, Mr. Richmond had not found it until after he had sent letters to Messrs. Brown, Hamilton and Richmond giving notice of the former vestry's reinstatement. The bishop said that the letter had been mislaid and had not reached him until he made a search after Mr. Richmond had notified him that it had been forwarded to his residence.

Mr. Richmond said this morning that he is not going to take any further action for the present, as neither Hamilton nor Brown have any authority to act in any way until the Bishop decides whether or not he will uphold the action taken in dismissing them. Bishop Rhinelander will probably announce his decision within a few days.

MINISTER WINS HIS CASE

Rev. Charles G. Hopper Carries Election in West Park Church.

The Rev. Charles Grant Hopper and his supporters won easily over the clergyman's opponents, who had criticized Mr. Hopper for "diplomatic political methods" and ruling the West Park Presbyterian Church with "an iron hand," when the annual election took place last night. Loud applause greeted the announcement of the result in the church at 6th street and Lansdowne avenues, and some of the members of the congregation had threatened to ask for the pastor's resignation as today considering uniting with another church.

Frank Seemiller was elected an elder in place of J. T. Plummer, who had resigned, and Frank McDowell was chosen a member of the board of trustees in place of Mr. Plummer. It was because these men were elected for election in the place of Mr. Plummer that they began an active campaign to prevent him from carrying out his duties.

LOCAL OPTION BILL RESTS ON QUAKER CITY REPRESENTATIVES

Governor Concentrates His Efforts on Philadelphians, Eight of Whom Are "Drys" and Ten Non-committal.

[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.] HARRISBURG, April 15.—The local option fight will be centered around the Philadelphia delegation until the measure comes up for a final vote in the House on Wednesday of next week.

Governor Brumbaugh, who realizes that the votes of many of the Philadelphia members are needed to pass the Williams bill, has concentrated his efforts in lining up members for the measure on the Philadelphia.

A careful canvass of the Philadelphia delegation showed some surprising changes that have occurred during the last few days. The number of Representatives from Philadelphia who are sure "wets," there are eight members from Philadelphia who are expected to vote for the bill and 10 others are non-committal. Seven of the non-committal members are Vore men, and orders, or even a word from Senator Vore, would swing them into line for the measure.

THE LINE-UP. The result of the canvass is as follows: For the bill: Wilson, Cox, McNichol, Lipschutz, Weir, Campbell, Walsh and Graham. All are Vore men except Graham, who is independent of any Vore or McNichol affiliation.

Against the bill: Foster, Stern, Lafferty, Smith, Grambsch, Terbill, Richards, Curry, McArdle, Vogdes, Jefferson, Reynolds, Perry, Conner, Drinkhouse, Gans, Fackler, Beyer, Roney, Arthur, Bauerle, Nieder and Aron.

Of these Roney is the only Vore man. Arthur, Bauerle and Nieder are affiliated with Dave Martin. Aron is a Dave Lane man. The rest are all followers of Senator McNichol.

Noncommittal—Glass, McDermott, Whilard, Wobensmith, Cummins, Dunn, McClintock, Rowell, Lauer, Hackett. Of these Rowell and Lauer are McNichol men and Hackett is a follower of Dave Martin. The rest are Vore men.

These gages in the ranks of the Philadelphia delegation have been made by Governor Brumbaugh during the past few days. He has called in nearly every member of the Philadelphia delegation who has been listed as at all uncertain, and has had "heart-to-heart" talks with them. Many of the men he has called have been noncommittal since these talks, whereas they were counted upon by the "wets" before that to vote against the bill.

GOVERNOR CONFIDENT. The Governor today is very confident that the bill will pass. The local optionists say the tide has changed again during the past few days to such an extent that if the bill were to be voted upon this week the House would pass it.

Outside of the Philadelphia delegation, the Governor again has 57 votes for the bill. With eight from Philadelphia, the measure would pass the House.

He has made gains in the Lancaster, York and Allegheny County delegations since the 11th of March. In local activity on the part of the liquor interests among the Representatives from the western counties has lost the "wets" two votes, and the "drys" one vote. Dr. Gilbert Reid, president of the International Institute, Shanghai, China, had so concisely put, also characterizes nations, especially those which stand for the rights of self-interest. In that respect, Japan is the worst offender.

As to the so-called demands, herein again we have good reasons to admire Japan's startling ambition and arrogant greediness. If a little child through swallowing too much, strangles and dies, we pity the child; but when a full grown man dies from the same cause, our feelings are a mixture of amazement and indignation. "The grasping disposition of the Republic of the United States, Japan is the little child, namely, death by strangulation, a self-imposed act. Japan, it is reasonable well, for any check placed on her forward move by any or all of her allies will not be due, according to sound reckoning, to high principle, but to self-interest.

France and Russia, all three, were forced into the war with high motives, such as the defense of weaker nations and the overthrow of militarism, at least that much which is retained by the enemy. When this war is fought out to a complete finish in Europe, and all armies and navies have been killed off, new expeditions may then be called to take steamship passage out to the Far East and proceed to the crushing of Japanese militarism.

The situation is plain, with all the western nations at war among themselves, representing the United States and China, who, being occupied in her tremendous task of reconstruction right after her civil struggle, as the result of which the Chinese Republic had been established after the very model of the Republic of the United States, Japan has seized the opportunity to ask for things not their own and if given would involve the interests not only of China, but of all the leading nations of the world. No matter how looked at or from what standpoint, such bold moves taken by the Japanese are unjustified, except on the pure ground of savagery and greediness.

YOUNG CHINESE SEES ONLY VAIN IMAGINING IN JAPAN'S ATTITUDE

Student at University of Pennsylvania Describes Demands of Mikado's Government as "Starting" in Their Scope.

By LUNENKING C. Y. KAO, Chinese Student at University of Pa.

Why do our neighbors in Japan tumultuously assemble and imagine a vain thing? From what can be gleaned from the newspaper reports, the Japanese are attempting an extraordinary undertaking—something similar to what had been brought in Korea as her public men wish us to believe. The mere scope as involved in some of the so-called demands made by Japan is startling enough, the contents of the real demands aside.

The Japanese is a wonderful race of people, no one who is more slow to deny than we, thanks to their apparent achievement in adopting the western methods in various things, particularly navy and army. In addition, the Japanese are endowed with the rare talent of "boasting" up things their own through means legitimate as well as otherwise.

Undoubtedly it is within their natural rights to advertise for what their nation is worth, but as soon as in so doing they interfere with others' rights—namely, personal honor—their action will be in that proportion questionable. Take, for instance, in one of the recent issues of the Harper's Weekly, in discussing questions in Shantung, China, our Japanese friend deemed it advisable to make the erroneous statement that our President, Liang Shi kai, had once been a "police-man" in China. It was said that Liang's name is not the point; what is significant and important is the underlying motive under which our Japanese friends had so recently accented to slander our important public officials.

As to the so-called demands, herein again we have good reasons to admire Japan's startling ambition and arrogant greediness. If a little child through swallowing too much, strangles and dies, we pity the child; but when a full grown man dies from the same cause, our feelings are a mixture of amazement and indignation. "The grasping disposition of the Republic of the United States, Japan is the little child, namely, death by strangulation, a self-imposed act. Japan, it is reasonable well, for any check placed on her forward move by any or all of her allies will not be due, according to sound reckoning, to high principle, but to self-interest.

When this war is fought out to a complete finish in Europe, and all armies and navies have been killed off, new expeditions may then be called to take steamship passage out to the Far East and proceed to the crushing of Japanese militarism.

GOVERNOR AND LAWMAKERS DISCUSS "RAISER" BILLS. Conference Decides to Have Tax Measures Passed.

[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.] HARRISBURG, Pa., April 15.—The bills now in the Legislature to increase the revenues of the State between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 a year, mostly for use on the State highways, were discussed today at a two hours' conference between the Governor and the legislative leaders.

Those who attended the conference were the chairman of the Finance and Representative committees, Senator Buckman and Representative Woodward, and the members of the joint conference committee of legislation. This committee consists of Senator Vore, McNichol, Crow and Sprout, and Representatives William H. Wilson, Henry I. Wilson, Williams and Speaker Ambler. No subject except taxation and revenues was discussed at the conference, but it became known after the conference that the leaders have decided to pass the Governor's child labor bill in substantially the same form in which it passed the House.

The Senate leaders were at first inclined to amend the bill in the Senate so as to provide for a 54-hour week and 10-hour day, instead of the 51-hour weekly and 8-hour day, now provided for in the bill.

The conference took place in the Governor's office. It was generally agreed that the revenue "raisers" now before the Legislature will be passed. The tax on anthracite coal, it was agreed, will be increased from 2 1/2 per cent. to 3 1/2 per cent. This increase would bring the annual revenue from this tax up to between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000 annually. Of this amount 60 per cent. it was agreed, will go to the State for use on the highways, and the other 40 per cent. will go to the counties in which the coal was mined. This is a compromise with the representatives of the coal counties, who have been asking for a fifty-fifty division, while the Governor at first wanted to divide the revenue on a basis of two-thirds to one-third.

FAINTING MOTORMAN WAS DYING AT POST

Physicians Now Say He Had Pneumonia and Thought It Cold.

John L. Keebler, a motorman for the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, who was found unconscious at his post yesterday after his car had run eight miles from Burlington to Riverside, died today at the Cooper Hospital, Camden. Physicians said he evidently had been suffering with pneumonia for a week or more and continued at work in the belief he had only a bad cold. He is survived by a widow and two children.

Keebler was running a Trenton and Camden division car, in which Assistant General Manager Harry C. Donacker and other officials of the company were making an inspection trip. At Burlington he complained of feeling ill, but thought he could continue the run to Camden.

Some of the officials in the car saw the motorman reel in his seat at Riverside. The car was speeding with all power through the outskirts of that town. Mr. Donacker and others went to the front platform and found Keebler in a semiconscious condition. His grip on the controller had loosened.

Another motorman in the car took it to Camden and Keebler was sent to the Cooper Hospital. Officials of the company say that passengers should turn off the controller or pull the trolley pole from the wire in case of a motorman losing consciousness. Then the trolley should be stopped by the use of the brakes.

PRESIDENT IN CHARGE OF JAPANESE AFFAIRS

Confers With Former Chinese Legal Advisor—Settlement Looked For.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—President Wilson today personally took charge of negotiations with Japan growing from the latter's demands on China. He held a long conference with President Frank Johnson Goodnow, of Johns Hopkins University, China's legal adviser in 1912 and 1913. It was said Goodnow's call was in connection with the President's presence at the coming opening of the university's new building. He was understood, however, to have expressed Japanese demands can be so modified as to give the Japanese preference along lines they are geographically entitled to without causing the "open door."

The United States will advise China to make certain concessions was reported. Japan was said to be willing to meet both countries half way, and an early, satisfactory settlement was looked for.

C. C. GLOVER

The president of the Riggs Bank, of Washington, has started the greatest money fight with the Government since Jackson's time, in getting a court order against Secretary McAdoo, Controller of the Currency, Williams and Treasurer Burke. He asserts these officials are trying to wreck the bank. The Riggs Bank is a powerful ally of the National City Bank of New York, the largest bank in the country.

RIGGS BANK SEEKS OUSTING OF WILLIAMS

Its Officials Back of Move to Abolish Comptrollership of The Currency.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The beginning of the injunction suit by the Riggs National Bank against John Skelton Williams, Comptroller of the Currency; William G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury, and John Burke, United States Treasurer, to restrain them from exercising alleged arbitrary powers, promises to develop into one of the greatest legal battles in the history of banking.

The entire power of the Administration is now being directed against the bank, and the Riggs officials, supported by the banking interests of the country, are said to be behind a movement to have the next Congress abolish the office of Comptroller of the Currency by having its duties merged in the work of the Federal Reserve Board. This movement, of course, is largely personal against Mr. Williams.

It is understood that Senator Newlands, Democrat, will offer the bill abolishing the office of Comptroller. Comptroller of the Currency Williams confirmed the report that criminal as well as civil action would be taken against officials of the Riggs bank. He confirmed the report that he would confer with Louis Brandeis, special counsel in the case for the Department of Justice; Jessie C. Adkins, also retained as special counsel, and Assistant Attorney General Warren.

Charles C. Glover, president of the Riggs National Bank, figured in a sensational episode that stirred official Washington more than a year ago. His slapped Representative Thetua W. Sims, of Tennessee, on the cheek when the men met in the fashionable section of Washington.

Mr. Glover had been attacked on the floor of the House by Representative Sims in regard to some real estate deals in which he figured, and he had strongly resented some of the imputations made against him by the lawmaker.

Representative Sims did not strike back and was urged by some of his friends to have Mr. Glover arrested for assault. He did not do this, but proceedings were instituted by members of the House of Representatives to have Glover summoned before that body for contempt, in offering physical violence to a member for statements made upon the floor of Congress.

Mr. Glover finally was called before the bar of the House and was compelled to apologize to Mr. Sims. That closed the incident, but some of the animosity engendered at that time have been smoldering ever since.

NEW HOUSING BILL DISCUSSED TODAY

Conference Will Take Up Plan to Draw Up Measure Satisfactory to All.

The work of preparing a new housing bill for Philadelphia broad enough to make possible many needed improvements in the city, and at the same time satisfactory to the forces in Councils that have lined up against the present measure, will be again taken up at a conference in the office of Director Ziegler, of the Department of Public Health and Charities, at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

At the conference in Harrisburg yesterday it was agreed to have the new bill drawn by Attorney General Brown, under the supervision of Governor Brumbaugh, with State Health Commissioner Dixon assisting. This would be at least a tentative solution, the leaders in Harrisburg agreed.

Those attending the conference from Philadelphia were John P. Connelly, chairman of Council Finance Committee; Select Councilman Edward Buchholz, John H. Fox, attorney for Council; John H. Fow, Senator Edwin H. Vore and Senator Edward W. Patton. The councilmanic leaders agreed to support any bill drawn as a substitute for the 1913 measure by Attorney General Brown, Dr. Dixon and Governor Brumbaugh.

Senator Vore made the suggestion that in view of the irreconcilable differences of opinion the present bill be repealed and an entirely new measure passed. In view of this suggestion it is considered likely that the pending repealer to the 1913 act will be brought up for a vote.

Stolen Automobiles Recovered

Attendance at the Ivy Ball, given by the senior class of the University of Pennsylvania, cost two patrons the use of their motor cars over night. The machines, stolen from in front of the gymnasium, 33d and Spruce streets, early this morning, were recovered later by the police. Dr. J. A. Babbitt, 191 Chestnut street, and Edward A. Walls, Overbrook, are the owners of the cars. Mr. Walls's machine was found at 24th and Palmyra streets. John J. Young, 248 W. 24th street, was attracted on suspicion of being one of three Negroes seen alighting from the automobile. Dr. Babbitt's car was recovered at 15th and De Lancey streets, minus one cushion.
